PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Shania Twain's queen of reunion

Country superstar Shania Twain has a new 100+ album coming soon. Twain, who now lives in Scrabbleville, was prised former classmates of her Timmins High school in Ontario, Canada, reuniting on Saturday. Twain went to the alumni dinner without an escort, and tried to blend into the crowd wearing a shawlless top, black pants and little make-up. Twain said she was nervous, but she was happy to see old friends.

Activist

Continued from A1. Panamanians have organized through the environmental movement, working at a great foundation in Montezuma, then in Washington, D.C. to found Ozone Action in July 1981. "When something directly hits you first, you can later look at the big picture," he said. "I always told him to do what he felt was right, and he did."

FOUNDED OZONE ACTION

Vail works praised by kin

Fluence V.V. Lidgerwood, a descendant of Judge Stephen Vail, original owner of the Sandpoint Inn in Morristown, where the first telegraph, advertisement was built, prepared a short talk at her contribution to the centennial, accorded to an article in the Daily Record on May 25, 1944. Lidgerwood's speech was read by Jane Emery, a student at the Alfred I. duPont Junior High School. Lidgerwood was a relative of Alfred Vail.
